To the Punta Gorda Community,

Charlotte High School's Read to Lead mentor program is in its second year.

Adult community volunteers are matched with students who teachers believe will benefit from a mentoring opportunity.

Generally, a mentor meets with his or her student for thirty minutes once each week. The student's reading and/or English teacher works directly with the mentor to devise a mutually supportive schedule, and provides materials for the mentoring sessions.

The benefits have proven to be social as well as academic in nature—and not just for students. Many of our mentors have returned this year because they found the experience equally rewarding.

Our roster is currently filled, but we are always ready to talk to potential mentors who wish to plan ahead or learn more.

Sincerely,
Ruth Shaulis
Literacy Coach, Charlotte High School
